this accommodation is given to most of our students for a variety of different disabilities. Most will receive and a half odouble time for test and quizzes This applies to online exams, as well.

- f Reduced distration: this accommodation is added when a student requires testing in a private room. Reserving private rooms is done in Testing Services.
- f Testing in DSsome students need to test in the Disability Services office for many different reasons. The studes thould be making appointments through the DS office to schedule.
- f No scantron if a student has a mobility challenge other disability preventing them from using a scantron, they will need a live scribe for tests and quizzes. All of these teststakleben the DS office.

(text

Faculty can determine where the test should be broken up.

f

f Ear plugs/headphonesstudents may need ear plugs for reduced distraction and/or noise cancelation. Students thi hearing impairment that wear hearing aids may need to use headphones to amply the sound withcomputer use.

General Accommodations

f Assistive Technologysee the examples listed above.

- f Audio record lectures:if a student utilizes this accommodation they are required to sign a form through the DS office, agreeing not to share the recognize reproduce them, or post them on any public or private website or social medRecordings are destroyed at the end of the semester. Students will uselean or a personal device for recording.
- f Use of laptop/technology in classstudents may need to access PowerPoints, etextbooks, or take notes on their laptops. Students with a vision impairment may need to use a CCTV in order to access notes written on the board or projected on a screen. This will require someone from the DS office to accompany the student to class. Faculty will be notified if this is the case.
- f Large print/tactile diagramsstudents with a vision impairmemnay need to have diagrams, graphs, maps, or other images with tactile representation. This will be don't DS office.

 Materials need to be emailed or dropped off to DS at least 4 days in advance of class use. Large print diagrams or assignments will need to be enlarged to a designated font size (usually 22)
- f In-class assistantstudents with a vison impairment or a mobility disability may require a classroom assistant for material handling, note taking, etc. This is especially true for lab classes.
- f Preferential seatingstudent can sit where he/she can best obtain the information that is presented in class. For students that record lectures, the front is optimal. Some students require a seat in the back, by the door, etc. The seat they will require should be listed on their Letter of Accommodations. Student and faculty should collaborate ramging seating.
- f Stand/move breakand/or momentarily leaving classstudents may need to take a break and step out of class, periodically. DS strongly encourages students to communicate with faculty if this is an accommodation they feel they will needs not necessary arrangements can be made, regarding any missed material.
- f Sign Language Interpreter and/or Retaine captionist (CAR)T students that are datf or hard of hearingmay have a sign language interpreter live in class or use a remottermeal captionist. DS has a separate form entitled the faculty resources tab, for more information on this. Any videos or movies being used in class will need to have closed captioning if they are not already ioanetd. It is strongly recommended to dind movies/videos that have captioning included. There is information about captioning under the faculty resources tab, as well.
- Attendance flexibility and assignment adjustment, as reasonable mestudents have disabilities that are episodic in nature and canave flareups, may require extra doctor visits and/or hospitalizations, etc. and may cause a student to periodically missacla/ssr an exam. The DS office

f Other: this list of accommodations only highlights the more common ones provided for caseby-case basisSome may be more complicated and/or sific and will need to be discussed with faculty individually. If this is the case, DS will reach out to faculty directly to discuss these accommodations. Faculty is always welcome to ask for additional explanations on specific accommodations or expressy c08.02 63730-